vision 1972

a new name,
an ancient vision...

men of God down through the centuries have been men of vision. they have had the insight to look beyond their own abilities to what could occur with God's help and guidance.

the men who have nurtured the growth of the ministry of this college, and who administer its work today, are examples of men of God with a vision. we are privileged to be part of the unfolding of that vision.

the name for God's people changed in time from hebrew to jew to christian, but the vision and promise given by God did not change. though with this year manhattan christian college goes forward serving with a new name — the vision remains the same.

Vision 1972

the concept of vision comes from the act of seeing, the most treasured of our senses. but sight goes deeper than the outward effects of light rays, and in the world of perception we can speak of "insight."

christian academic effort is born of insight, of the vision of what can be when men dream dreams in the spirit of Christ. Jesus told his disciples "blessed are your eyes, for they see . . . " meaning that in their hearts they perceived the spirit of what he taught.

the study, worship, and the service we encounter at manhattan christian college prepares us to envision God's plan for our lives, to respond to it, and to share the vision with others.

academic effort . . .

In the library, the classroom, the dormitory, the lounge--together and alone we face the common venture of preparing the mind for service. The mind is God's gift, a tool for working. So we seek day by day to discover and retain the knowledge that will be needed for the times of testing. Not simply the tests for this course or that, but the crucial test of a life witness. The coin of royal service is minted in academic effort.

of service for God....

isaiah said he envisioned the Lord "sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up" and that he heard the voice of the Lord saying, "whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" . . . and he said "here am i — send me!"

whatever our vision for our own life, it must begin with the sight of the Lord "high and lifted up" and a response like that of isaiah. a life of service grows out of a life of praise.

from the preached word, and prayer, from hymn and fellowship, from around the Lord's table, we move out into the world, extending our service for God by also serving our brothers. in our worship we prepare to serve.

Vision 1972

chapel

Chapel is one means of corporate worship which involves the whole MCC family. Singing and gospel messages are elements to which we always look forward. Special events include communion services and musical concerts presented by various groups such as our own Chapel Choir and Mabico Singers.

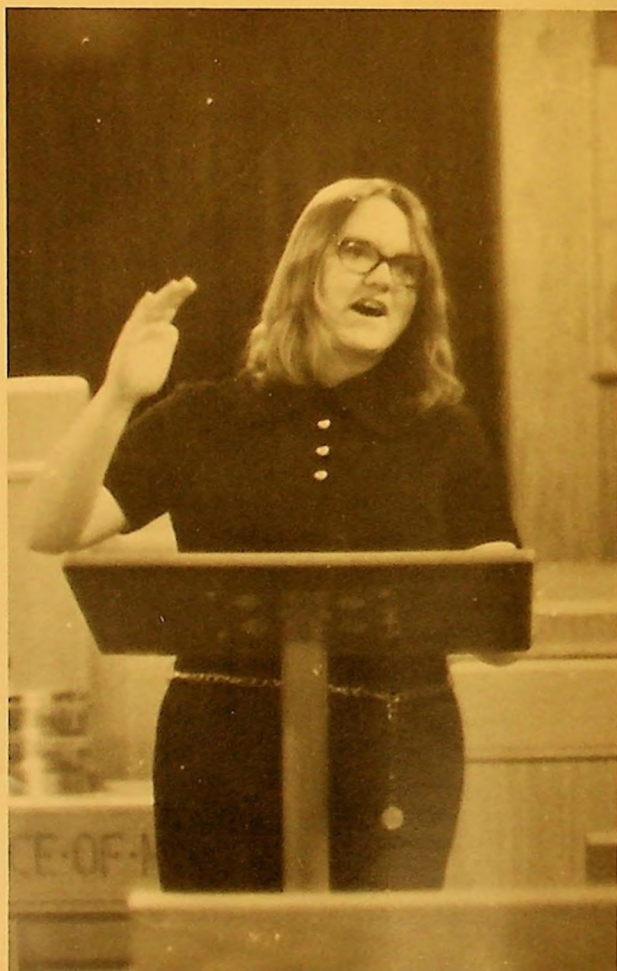

Our speakers came from varied backgrounds and proclaimed varied aspects of the Gospel message. They included Alumni, college presidents, faculty, missionaries, and students. Featured on this page are: Steve Edwards, Alumnus and Minister of Town and Country Christian Church in Wichita; Dr. James McCain, President of Kansas State University; Embry Williams, Evangelist for Campus Crusade for Christ; K. R. Eggleton, former MCC professor and Superintendent of Christian City, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia; Howard K. Davis, President of Midwest Christian College; and Larry Jansen, graduating senior of MCC and Associate Minister at Junction City.

The opportunities for service for students at MCC are as unlimited as the Lord we serve. And many of the fields of service are not far down in the future, nor far away in some distant land, but right in the college community. One regular feature of community service is the Friday night student conducted worship at the IOOF home west of Manhattan. Earl Meyer is shown above visiting with one of the residents of the home. Another avenue for service is the Gospel Team organization. On these pages the Mission Gospel team is seen rehearsing and planning for one of their trips; the Drama team presents "On the Hill" for the church at Hugoton; and Linda Hieronymus and Mike Shiflett share a message in song with the congregation of the Clyde Christian Church.

MCC students are also active in the work of the local congregations, University and Crestview Christian Churches. Charlotte Preston is seen at left leading the singing for a Crestview evening worship program.

A new opportunity this year was the ministry of "His Place" in Aggieville, spearheaded by '71 alumnus David Williams (INSET ABOVE). MCC students often took part in the Bible studies, prayer meetings, and personal witness to KSU students, Fort Riley personnel, and others, which was the thrust of this new street ministry.

Ministering to others in God's name is our challenge. The job of ministering is undertaken by every Christian in all vocations. It is our duty to preach and be the gospel of Christ to the aged, the youth, and the middle-aged.

the challenge of ministry . . .

There are 22 churches in the surrounding area which are served by student ministers. These involve a total ministry which includes helping to meet spiritual, physical, and social needs. The activities of each student minister vary with the local situation.

Activities pictured on this page include calling, pre-marital counseling, and planning a youth-led worship program combined with a little fun! John Foster is Minister at Peabody, Kansas, and his wife, Linda, helps with the youth program.

The duties of a professional minister are determined by his love for God and man. Larry Kuhl is shown in the pulpit at Clyde, Kansas, while Mike Albert leads a youth group at El Dorado, Kansas.

life together in the spirit . . .

"One of the greatest things about a Christian college is the fellowship." Fellowship is an essential part of the devotional life of an MCC student. Group dorm devotions are a time for a fellowship of singing, sharing, praying, and growing. For the girls, prayer cells are an opportunity for close fellowship in sharing joys as well as problems and in reinforcing one another in prayer.

A special time of fellowship for the whole MCC family is joint devotions with President Lown. KOINO-NIA groups in the homes of married students offer small group fellowship for all members of the MCC family. And then those special devotions alone . . .

working together

the Lord appeared to abram in a vision and told him that his descendants would be innumerable as the stars shining at night.

as each star among the billions of stars is a unique work of God, so each one of us is. from the line of abraham came the One who makes it worthwhile to be an individual, and a joy to reach out to each other.

manhattan christian college is a family of individuals working together to accomplish in Christ that which was promised to abram by the Lord saying, "in you all the families of earth shall bless themselves."

Of all that makes a college experience meaningful, enjoyable, and memorable, PEOPLE are the most important, because it is our relationship with others that defines our own life. People are always significant--individuals and persons together, doing things with one another and for one another, and even to one another.

The pictures on these pages show MCC people in "typical" situations: five bright students take a dim view of the world; Lee Davis prepares to get "married" in a ministries seminar; John Coleman imitates an airplane on MCC Day; David Benedict imitates a bird on the skating rink; Bob Leach gets friendly with a slice of watermelon; Carol Hieronymus and Ginny Jewett practice precision cheers; Charles Gilliam makes a valentine for Miss Britton; Dave DeBey paints wildly; Ellen Clark shows her handiwork; and Janice Patterson quietly feeds her face.

All people--all important.

people make the difference . . .

one day on the housetop of simon, a tanner, peter saw a vision which was to change the world even to our day and beyond. as a result of this vision, peter came to realize that the life he was given through Christ was to be shared by all, even the gentiles.

as we participate in the different campus activities, in the churches, or in koinonia groups, we are sharing in this life that which was shared with us. "whatever you do, do all to the glory of God." these words of paul serve as a constant reminder as we walk, talk, work, play, and live the wonderful life that is possible for us.

8:30 A.M. found the day off to a busy start, climaxing at noon with the groundbreaking ceremony for the Campus Center. Norman Kidd, Youth Minister from Longmont, Colorado and alumnus of MCC challenged both young and old to a closer walk with Christ. The drama department held the audience spellbound at Calvary with "Eyes Upon the Cross," while various groups and individuals entertained and inspired us through "Joyful Sound" under the direction of Doug Ingmire.

Time still remained for a banquet, film, and several seminars for high school seniors to be sandwiched in before Mabico Singers ended the day with glorious praises to "My Eternal King!"

athearn lectureship

Dr. A. Dudley Dennison, heart specialist and popular lecturer, was guest speaker for the 8th Annual Walter S. Athearn Lectureship Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 2.

Dr. Dennison shared in both lectures and informal discussions with students, faculty, and staff.

t. h. johnson memorial preaching convention

"The Church in the World: Jesus Today" was the theme of the 19th Annual Preaching Convention held Jan. 31, Feb. 1, 2.

A highlight of the convention was the announcement that the Wesley Foundation Property had been offered for sale to MCC.

Other convention highlights were: spirited singing, the presentation of a 21-year service award to Miss Martha Amlong, Librarian, by the Alumni, and the several luncheons and banquets (shown upper right, Mrs. T. H. Johnson, Guest of Honor at the T. H. Johnson Memorial Luncheon).

the old folks from home . . . parents' days

A reception in Owensby Lounge, a chance to eat in the college dining hall, a drama presentation, and a banquet were among the special events for parents coming to see the college and meet the teachers and friends of their sons and daughters.

...but for the MCC family, it was the "real MCC Day". Starting with an "awakening chorus", the day at White Memorial Camp at Council Grove Lake was full of special times: time for exploring, eating, and having crazy fun together. Shown are Captain America (Dale Hillard) and his magic tricks, the banana-eating contest, and best actress Bob Baird and best actor Dale Aldridge in a scene from "Feudin", and a faculty-student game. The day of fellowship closed with a time for private devotions and a special communion service.

a core of leadership in student council

STUCO coordinates Orientation Week for new students and meets with the faculty for discussion (ABOVE).

One of STUCO's many projects this year was the MCC Family LIFT Program. Shown here are the twelve-passenger Dodge van paid for with the Lift commitments and Mrs. Burrows, a member of the "gospel team" from First Christian Church of Hugoton.

After a shaky debut in the middle of the 1971 spring semester, KMCC, the campus carrier-current radio station expanded this year into a wobbly operation involving several more student voices behind its microphones. The station continues to improve its services as a forum for campus information as well as a source of evening hour home-grown entertainment.

KMCC serves as well as an effective tool in courses dealing with radio production. Carol Hieronymus and Randy Hopper are shown working their shifts at the control board, and Ray Weeks makes some needed repairs. Under the student management of John Beck, the station moved to twenty-four hour programming, utilizing services of a feed from Topeka's KSWT-FM during hours outside our own broadcast schedule.

A new course in the curriculum in '71 - '72 was Journalism and publication, which dealt not only with some of the principles and history of these disciplines, but became a means of expression of journalistic skills in student publications. The class members, taught by Professor Benedict, produced THE CRUSADER, A student newspaper, and this yearbook.

The MCC Players worked with two major productions in 1971-72. In the first semester they presented "Eyes Upon the Cross" on MCC Day (see pages 42, 43) and Parent's Days, and at the church in Washinton, Kansas.

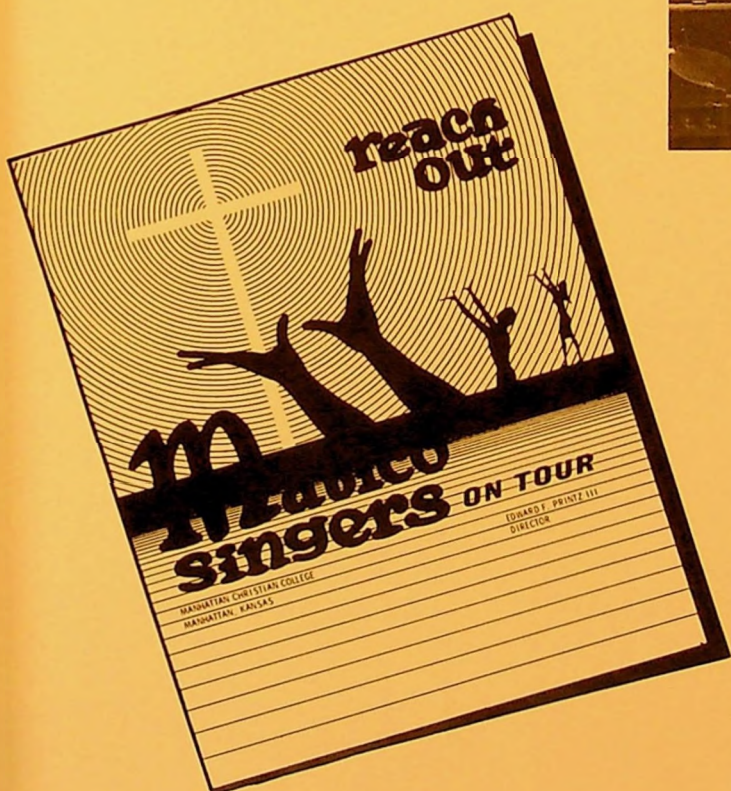

During the second semester the troupe made several trips presenting "On the Hill" at Hugoton, Centralia, and Council Grove, Kansas, and at Adrian, Missouri, as well as for one of the Junior-Senior Days programs on campus. The players are directed by Professor David Benedict.

"on the hill"

mabico singers on tour

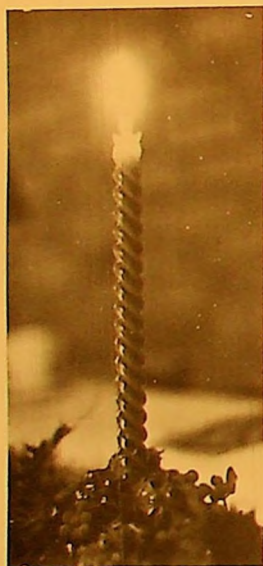

Mabico Singers participated in several activities during the year, such as the LIFT Dinner, MCC Day, and the Preaching Convention. The year climaxed with two mini-tours and the spring tour program, "Reach Out".

"Give a listen to our story;
Hear the message that it brings...
Accept Him with your whole heart.
Use your own two hands.
With one REACH OUT to Jesus,
And with the other...bring a friend."

The Singers included Sopranos Ellen Clark, Rita Hovorka, Haven Howard and Pam Marts; Altos Paula McCanless, Charlotte Preston, Wanda Smith, and Jeanne Wenger; Tenors Curtis Cary, Lynn Dickson, Paul Stetler and Aaron Van Deusen; and Basses John Beck, Joe Mack, Tim Newton, and Larry Winger. Pianist was Donna Jewett, and Director, Edward F. Printz III.

winter banquet

"Color my Christmas" was the theme of the 1971 Winter Banquet sponsored by the Women's Dorm and Annex. Our Christmas was colored "delicious" with evergreen salad, roast reindeer, snowballs, mistletoe, and holly berry delight. Dale Hillard, the evening speaker, colored it "delightful"? (See picture below!) His Singers colored it almost any way you please--Joyful, crazy, merry...All in all, it proved to be an enjoyable evening for the entire attending MCC family.

Alpha Beta Chi projects this year included decorating the bulletin board with several thought-provoking messages (RIGHT) and organizing a missions gospel team (BELOW).

pre-school

A day in the life of a pre-schooler includes a greeting from Wava as he arrives, playtime (really it's for learning, too), a time for sharing, and fun together with Mrs. Aldridge, the director of Manhattan Christian College Pre-School.

Soccer--a sport that means speed, skill, rough-and-tumble contact, and endurance. Popular all over the world, soccer has aroused more interest in the U. S. in recent years--and at MCC.

We entered our second soccer season eagerly this year with 22 students out for the team. The season record of 2 wins, 7 losses, and one tie leaves room for improvement, but is, itself, an advance from the first three-game, three-loss season. Coach Baird anticipates increased interest and participation from athletes and fans alike in next year's MCC soccer scene.

SEASON RECORD: (Crusader Scores listed first.)

30th	KSU Jr. Varsity	2-4

OCTOBER

1st	Miltonvale Wesleyan	2-5
4th	Friends Bible College	2-6
7th	Central Junior College	4-5
11th	Kansas Technical (Salina)	2-2

It is the team effort that makes a successful athletic season. And the team consists of more than just the players, though their role is the primary one. For behind their efforts lie the factors of coaching and support.

These elements blended to make the 1971-1972 Crusader Basketball Season a rewarding one for all involved--coach, players, cheerleaders, fans. In a twenty-four game schedule the Crusaders broke even with twelve wins and twelve losses, finishing third in the Midwest Conference of Christian Colleges (and third in the Conference Tournament).

More significant than the total record, Coach Bob Baird saw five wins in the last six games as a major accomplishment (the final loss was to a strong team from Grace by only two points). And he predicted a strong '72 - '73 season with most of the team returning.

Another feature of the season was the selection of junior ministries major Kent Pratt for the All-Conference Team of the Midwest Conference of Christian Colleges.

An important part of the team effort are those who work to keep "spirit" pouring forth. The 1971-72 Cheerleaders were captained by Ginny Jewett, and the other cheerleaders were Linda Gilliland, Linda and Carol Hieronymus, and Kathy Shultz.

The baseball season (MCC's second) was hampered by rainy spring weather which cut a schedule of twelve games down to eight. Of these, the Crusaders gained the victory in three.

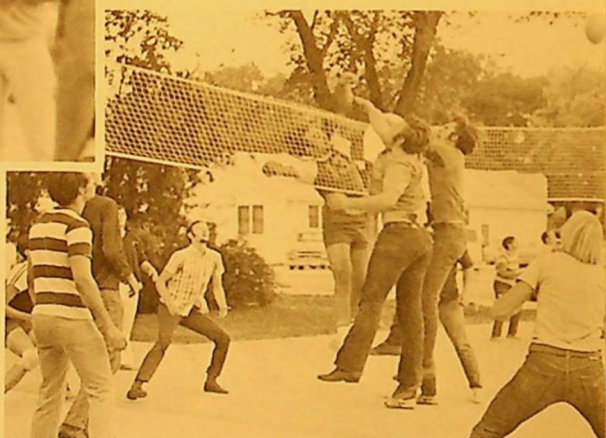

The 1972 baseball roster include John Messer, Kent Pratt, Stanley Stockton, John Rea, Bill Harrold, Alan Bates, Pat Theobald, Larry Jansen, Pat Kelley and Ron McCaffrey.

intramural athletics

The MCC intramural program this year included the usual team sports of touch football and volleyball. In addition, this season saw the first MCC one-on-one basketball tournament, won by Pat Theobald with Tim Anderson finishing second.

The championship game of the annual ping-pong tournament found Larry Jansen and Ken Pratt in a dead-ly showdown. In the end, Larry's hard-driving returns fell prey to Kent's persistent precision.

Participation in a tennis and golf tournament with other Christian colleges was a new feature of athletics in 1972. Doubles team Tim Anderson and Ken Pratt finished third among eight teams. Bruce Gledhill and Lynn Dickson comprised another MCC team.

golf

Things did not go well overall for MCC's golfers at the Country Club Course. Enoch Leakey and Rod Kelley competed, along with Ken Pratt (not pictured) who was Medalist, with the best score of all tournament players.

spring banquet

The Spring Banquet, sponsored by the junior class, was a rousing affair this year, with a pleasant blend of the formal and informal. In the Wildcat Room at the Holdiay Inn, an excellent meal preceeded a fine and unusual program.

The master of ceremonies, replendent in his tuxedo, was jovial John Rea. As pretty girls and their escorts looked on, John presented the various features of the evening's entertainment. Notable among these was the main speaker, John Coleman, who reminded the graduates especially of the accomplishments of their college years.

Mr. Coleman also took time to present the graduates with mementos of some of their more profound college experiences. As pictured here we see that Larry Kuhl's gift could be thought of as a flag for a special day; accident-prone Doug Ingmire was provided with some helpful protection; Mike Albert got a reminder of a record that "still sits"; and Letitia Erwin a souvenir from her friendly soft-drink man. Other graduates also received gifts strangely significant; A "head" for Anita Shafer; a patent medicine for Marty Jansen; a mending kit for Larry Jansen; and handcuffs for John and Linda Foster. What could they all have meant?

"Joke" Mack (better known as Joe) entertained with violin virtuosity and very shaggy humor.

“the end is where we begin”

That theme set the keynote for the forty-fifth annual commencement program, as presented in the commencement address by John Greenlee, minister of the Westside Christian Church in Wichita, Kansas. A capacity crowd filled the KSU All-Faiths Chapel as the ten graduates received their degrees, and honored them in a reception following in Owensby Lounge.

Other features of the commencement program were the honoring of Linda Foster and Larry Jansen with membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, the Delta Epsilon Chi Honor Society Award to Marty Jansen (who was also the first graduate to complete one of the cooperative programs with KSU), the presenting of the class picture to the College, and a gift to Dean Edwards in token of his service to the school.
